

AMERICA'S NAVY VETERANS RETURN TO SEA

A New Mission Beneath the Ocean

For the first time in modern maritime history, retired United States Navy veterans living in Hawaii are invited to return to the sea — not for conflict, but for conservation, hospitality, and global leadership.

The USA–UAE Coral Civilization Initiative introduces a new command structure for the world's first movable US Patent Design Planet Ocean Underwater Hotels.

Each Underwater Hotel operates with:

- 18 primary crew
- A rotational secondary relief crew
- Structured command leadership
- Triple-redundancy life-support systems
- 24/7 marine operations oversight

Just like the ships many of these veterans once served aboard, every Underwater Hotel functions under disciplined rotational management. Leadership, engineering, safety, navigation, systems monitoring — all based on proven maritime structure.

HAWAII EMPLOYEE-OWNED

LOUISIANA EMPLOYEE-OWNED

50 USA States Paired with 50 Nations

Fabrication and systems assembly originate in Houma and Morgan City, Louisiana — where employee-owned steel fabrication teams construct and train.

Hawaii becomes the Pacific operational and training command center.

The 220' × 90' × 30' Big Top Hawaii Training Center will serve as:

- Assembly training platform
- Triple redundancy systems demonstration site

- Crew rotation logistics base
 - Leadership training academy
-

EX-USN HAWAII VETERANS WELCOME

Retired Navy veterans understand:

- Rotations
- Command structure
- Safety doctrine
- Redundancy systems
- Maritime discipline

Now that experience can be applied to something new — ocean conservation, global hospitality, and international cooperation.

Tony Webb, former U.S. Navy (specialized in celestial navigation), graduate of Admiral Farragut Academy in St. Petersburg, Florida, looks forward to personally appearing in Hawaii to meet prospective crew.

America will see that the best have returned to the sea — this time to protect it.

A NEW FRIENDLY HOSPITALITY WORLD

Built by American fabrication.
Operated by American veterans.
Partnered with 50 Nations.

www.PlanetOceanUnderwaterHotel.com